HOMESTREET BANK'S REPLY TO GRIFFIN RESPONSE ON CONFIRMATION OF PLAN

HomeStreet Bank (“HSB”) replies to Griffin’s Response to HomeStreet’s Motion to Enforce the Court’s Orders and the Plan Confirmation Schedule as follows:

I. BRIEF DELAY?

Scott Griffin, as new management of the debtor, states that the withdrawal of the Plan and Disclosure Statement set for confirmation on January 27, 2011 will result only in a “brief delay.” [Griffin Reply p.2, line 10.]

The withdrawal indicates that it will take 14 days to file the new Plan and Disclosure Statement. The hearings on Disclosure Statement and Plan confirmation are set by court rule at 25 days plus mailing time. The “brief delay” is thus over two months. Such a delay is hardly “brief.”

II. OBVIOUS AMENDMENTS?

Griffin states that he merely seeks time to make “obvious” amendments to the Plan. There is no description of what amendments are obvious to Griffin or his counsel. The changes

1 to a Plan can often be made by clarifications in the Order Confirming Plan. Since the Plan
2 proposes sale free and clear and distributions to creditors strictly in compliance with the absolute
3 priority rule, any material change would fail and the unknown issues which, if Griffin finally
4 discloses them, can be incorporated in an Order Confirming Plan. Griffin and his counsel are
5 unable to articulate for the Court and creditors specific items on which there should be changes
6 or amendments despite the fact that the Plan has been before them for over a month.

7                   III. HOMESTREET'S "AGENDA"

8                   The Plan in this case provides for a sale under a plan which will save over $600,000 in
9 excise tax. It provides for a sale short of paying HomeStreet's 4th position lien at an agreed price
10 of $35,000,000 and it then provides for distribution in accordance with strict priorities specified
11 by the Code. Each of the terms has already been presented to the Court in a Settlement
12 Agreement.

13                  Under the Plan, if the avoidance action adversary is not successful, the 3rd Lien to 14 Talbitzer and Glavin should be paid in full. If the avoidance action on the 3rd Lien is successful
15 all unsecured creditors will be paid in full or virtually so. "HomeStreet's narrow agenda"
16 provides the potential to get unsecured creditors paid. Griffin's rhetoric simply does not ring
17 true.

18                   IV. PRECEDENT.

19                  Efforts to scuttle a Chapter 11 Plan in the 11th hour have been rejected before. In In re
20 Johns Manville Corporation 66 B.R. 517 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1986), the court prevented a
21 shareholders group from attempting to organize, meet and reject the comprehensive agreement
22 reached with the creditors, and approved by the Manville Board of Directors which was the 23 foundation of the Plan of Reorganization. The shareholder group sought to elect a new board
24 which would reject the agreement. Despite ample precedent supporting the corporate rights of 25 shareholders, Judge Lifland, refused to allow the attempt by the shareholders group to kill the 26 Agreement. This action preserved the Plan which was ultimately confirmed.

V. CONCLUSION.

The Plan should be confirmed. Any amendments that Griffin may have that are not material should be incorporated into the Order Confirming Plan. Any material amendments that would require re-voting should not be permitted.
